RDF's One Promise

MacDaniel Reynolds

Trust is a big deal to me, both personally and professionally, and I believe at the core of trust is a very simple concept – being genuine. Being genuine in what you say; being genuine in what you do. And, I believe being genuine is what makes the Reynolds Defense Firm so successful – there's no pretense here - what you see is what you get. We do what we say we are going to do, and we don't make promises we can't keep.

In fact, there is only one promise we make to our clients, because there is only one thing within our complete control – our one promise is that we will do the absolute best we can for every client we represent. And, since DUI law is our specialty, our absolute best can be pretty amazing.

If you or someone you believe in faces a DUI in Multnomah, Washington, or Clackamas County, call the Reynolds Defense Firm today, because you want the Reynolds Defense Firm on your side.

Reynolds Defense Firm – we're solid, we're here if you need us, and we are very good at what we do.

Selflessly Selfish

Have you ever been in a relationship that feels one-sided? Like you give much more than you get back in return? This is actually a common theme for some of our clients. After all, good people generally want to help others, and this situation can sneak up on you without you realizing it. We see this most often with a person caring for a family member – an aging parent, a child with a disability, or even raising young children. Eventually, even with all the love involved in that relationship, the constant giving starts to feel pretty bad, and eventually, something has to give. In our context, that means the caregiver finds themselves arrested for a DUI.

One of the best ways to head this off is to be "selflessly selfish." The idea is that no one can be completely selfless – you need to take some 'me time' to refill your tank too. As odd a feeling as it may be, to be your best for others, you have to be 'selfish' as well. After all, there is a reason they tell you to put the airplane oxygen mask on yourself first!

"There is a reason they are the best in the business. They honestly care and you feel it."

Danielle Bonacorso—Director of First Impressions

5 star reviews

“Richard Morgan is kind, extremely intelligent, and great to work with. He puts you at ease and explains things so you can understand the process of what you are going through.” - SW

“Dan was phenomenal. I was beyond stressed and my anxiety was through the roof. This isn't a situation where you want to face it alone. Dan and his team took the time to answer all my questions and helped me throughout the whole process. There is a reason they are the best in the business! They honestly care and you can feel it. I wish I never got into trouble, but I am glad I picked the right team to help me along the way.” -KC

“Eric was our attorney and he was amazing. You guys were all awesome...that allows my daughter to have a better future.” - M.D.

“I would have never been able to do this without you.” - T.Z.

When you hire RDF, you hire a whole team of solid people who are invested in your success, both in the courtroom and in life. Each of us are here for you, including Danielle Bonacorso, our wonderful Director of First Impressions.

Danielle's smiling face is the first thing you see when you come into our office, and it is her voice you hear when you call us on the telephone. Danielle has years of service industry experience, and she understands just how important first impressions are. Her compassionate nature and pride in the fantastic work we do here at RDF make her a great part of our team, and her positive energy helps our clients understand that they've come to the right place.

Outside of work, Danielle loves spending time with her family, creating things by hand, her adorable cat, Sally, and learning anything about forensic sciences.

Reynolds Defense Firm recognized as one of the top law firms in Portland

The Portland Business Journal recently published the 2017 list of Top Law Firms in the Portland Metro Area. Only one DUI defense firm made the list – Reynolds Defense Firm. We are proud of this achievement, and this is a great recognition of our employees' belief in doing the absolute best we can for each client we help. In reality, we are changing the way DUI defense is done, and we will continue to help our clients be successful in both the courtroom and in life.

What's new with me and my own Everyday Warrior—a great cause and a great community

Tammy is a member of a local CrossFit gym, CrossFit 503. She works out there three or four times a week, and she's even participated in several competitions. A few weeks ago, Jack and I got to watch her compete in an Everyday Warrior competition, and she did fantastic! Her three-woman team came in 9th out of 68 teams, and Tammy even had a personal best lift during the events - way to go Tammy!

The competition that Tammy participated in is a fundraiser for Everyday Warrior, a Salem-based non-profit with a powerful mission to: “Financially support, inspire and empower individuals who have been diagnosed with cancer and are currently undergoing treatment.”

Everyday Warrior was founded by Brittany and Matthew Gill, after Brittney, then a 29-year old avid CrossFitter, wife, and mother, was diagnosed with an aggressive form of cervical cancer. The support she received from the CrossFit community was incredible - within seconds of sharing her diagnosis, a fundraiser was planned and she learned firsthand that “No One Fights Alone.” Brittney continued with CrossFit, even during her treatments, doing it all with a smile on her face and an IV pole over her head. During her fight with cancer, she and Matthew started Everyday Warrior to honor, celebrate, and support the Everyday Warriors among us. Sadly, Brittney lost her battle with cancer in 2014, but the fantastic organization that she helped start continues to do great work today. To donate to this great cause, and for more information, visit Everyday Warrior at www.everyday-warrior.org.
